NATIONAL LIBRARY WEEK

April 8th—14th is National Library Week! Come celebrate our library and our community with us. Tell us your favorite thing about coming to the library! We'll also have events all week to celebrate.

On Monday, April 9th, we will announce the winner for our month-long March Madness competition. Find out which book is the best!

On Wednesday, April 11th, Amy Campbell and Stefani Herridge will give a presentation on the history of the Marshall Public Library.

On Thursday, April 12th, we will be celebrating National Drop Everything and Read Day. We will host an all-day read-a-thon at the library. If you can't join us, we'd like to encourage you to drop everything and read for 15 minutes. Take a selfie and put it on our Facebook page, tagged with #dropeverything! We'd love to see you.

On Friday, April 13th, we will have a Stuffed Animal Sleepover. Children of all ages are encouraged to bring their stuffed animals to the library to sleep over! On Friday night, the animals will have a party with a movie, a craft, and games. When you come to pick up your stuffed animal, you will get pictures of all the fun your animals had!

POETRY WALL

April is National Poetry Month! We are celebrating with our 18th annual Poetry Wall! The Poetry Wall shows off original work by local poets. Writers of all ages are invited to submit poetry for display. All entries become part of the library's collection. Children especially are encouraged to participate. Submissions can be hand-delivered to the library, or sent via email to acampbell@marshallpl.org. Entries will be accepted until April 15th.

A TO Z FOOD DATABASE

If you like to sample food from around the planet, we have a database for you! During the month of April, the library is participating in a trial run of AtoZ World Food. The database features more than 6,000 recipes from 174 countries, as well as hundreds of articles on food culture and six food glossaries. Ask our staff for the user ID and password, either in person or by calling 208-232-1263, ext. 106. Let us know what you think!

LIBRARIAN QUILT DISPLAY

This month, come see some of our librarians' hard work. From April 2-April 30, library employees Becky Hadley, Leslie Leukhardt, Becky Mitton, and friends will display some of their homemade quilts. They will also share personal stories and creative inspiration. The display will be on the second floor of the library. Come and see some beautiful quilts!
